ALL ABOUT SHOES!

Gentlemen are Requested not to Read this

We do not boast of Auction Shoes
At shillings six a pair,
For sure no lady would them choose
That wants a shoe to wear.

Now very much we feel inclin'd
Such Gaiters to expose,
They are not good, and you will find
Them bursting round the toes.

Such fil-made Shoes you could not wear
We often with them meet;
Just made to sell, they rip and tear
When walking in the street.

A lady passing by one day
Was caused a deal of trouble,
Superbly dress'd in garments gay
And Shoes not worth a bubble.

Now pair of Shoes, and good ones too,
As the dear lady thought,
Until her foot protruding though
Proclaimed them good for naught.

We pay the prices for our work
To have it honest made,
To worthy men who are in truth
The masters of their trade,

And we can boast of extra nice
Of beautiful and neat,
Of fairy Shoes at fairest price
To decorate the feet.

JACOB SNYDER, TAILOR,
The Hero of One Hundred Fits per Month!

I would respectfully set forth my claim to public attention, as a Fashionable Tailor, as follows:
Because I keep an excellent assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings and Trimmings, which, when examined, always please.
Because my work is made up in a manner that takes down the country and gives all my customers a city appearance.
Because I am not inferior as a Cutter to the best to be found anywhere.
Because long experience in my business gives me entire control over it and I am not dependant upon any one to lift me out of the suds.
Because I am still on the sunny side of forty, and therefore my taste as a Cutter and workman unimpaired.
Call on me, in the corner room of the "Brant House." Give me a trial and you will go away pleased.

Select Poetry.

The Farmer's Song.

We envy not the princely man,
In city or in town,
Who wonders whether pumpkin vines,
Run up the hill or down;
We care not for his marble halls,
Nor yet his heaps of gold,
We would not own his sordid heart
For all his wealth thrice told.

We are the favored ones of earth,
We breathe pure air each morn,
We sow—we reap the golden grain—
We gather in the corn;
We toil—we live on what we earn,
And more than this we do;
We hear of starving millions round,
And gladly feed them, too.
The lawyer lives on princely fees,
Yet drags a weary life,
He never knows a peaceful hour—
His atmosphere is strife.
The merchant thumbs his yard stick o'er—
Grows haggard at his toil,
He's not the man God meant him for—
Why don't he till the soil?

The doctor plods through storm and cold,
Plods at his patients' will,
When dead and gone he plod's again
To get his lengthy bill.
The printer, (bless his noble soul,)
He grasps the mighty earth;
And stamps it on our welcome sheet
To cheer the farmer's hearth.

We sing the honor of the plow,
And honor of the press—
Two noble instruments of toil,
With each a power to bless.
The bone, the nerve of this fast age,
True wealth of human kind—
One tills the ever generous earth,
The other tills the mind.

Select Miscellany.

Fighting Tiger of King of Oude--Desperate Encounter.

"Harper's Weekly," just received, contains a fine portrait of Burrhea, the famous fighting tiger of the King of Oude, and gives a thrilling account of a fearful contest, which we extract in full. This tiger stands five feet two inches in height, and is, therefore, an unusually large animal. His ordinary food is twenty-five pounds of raw meat per day. His antagonist on this occasion was a famous stallion, whose ferocity and blood thirstiness had won him the title of "Man Eater." The account is from the "Private Life of an Eastern King," and runs thus: "Burrhea was the name of a favorite tiger of the King's, so called from a village at the foot of the Himalayas, near to which he was taken. We were all assembled at Chaun-gunge in the gallery of a court yard, about sixty yards square in extent—a court yard with buildings all round, and a veranda below. Thick bamboo railing had been put up in front of the veranda, so as completely to encircle the court yard, and to form a sort of enlarged cage. The man-eater had been enticed into the enclosure by means of a little mare—a tattoo, as the country horses are called—of trifling value.

"The King and his usual suite of female attendants had taken their places in the gallery, he on a sofa placed there for the purpose, they behind him. We stood on his Majesty's right and left, leaning on the parapet, or on the sofa. Every one commanded a full view of the court-yard, and the ladies seemed to relish the prospect as much as any one. The order was given, and Burrhea's cage was brought into the veranda. A door in the bamboo railing, prepared for the purpose, was drawn up, the cage door was opened, and Burrhea bounded into the court-yard, lashing his sides with his long tail, and glaring furiously upon the man-eater and his little female friend. A more beautiful tiger than Burrhea it would not be easy to discover in all India. His glossy coat, regularly streaked, shone in the enclosure, in pleasant contrast with the frowsy covering of the little mare. Even the well-kept hide of the man-eater was sadly wanting in brilliancy when compared with the glittering skin of Burrhea. The tiger had been kept without food or drink from the previous day to prepare him for the assault. He glared savagely at the horses as he entered, and commenced slowly stealing along toward them. The man-eater kept his eyes fixed on the eye-balls of his enemy. Not for an instant did he take them off; his head lowered, standing in an easy attitude, with one foot slightly advanced, he awaited the attack, moving as Burrhea moved, but always with the eyes intently fixed. As for the poor little mare, she was transfixed with fear—paralyzed—apparently unable to take a thought for preservation. She stood cowering in a corner, awaiting her fate. With a slight bound Burrhea was upon the mare in an instant. A blow of his paw threw her over on the ground; his teeth were fastened in her neck, and he drank her blood greedily. It was simple butchery, for there was no resistance.

"'It will make Burrhea only the more savage,' said the King, rubbing his hands gleefully. The European courtiers assented; and the female attendants, ignorant of the language, but certain that the King was pleased, were mightily pleased too. They exchanged glances of approbation and of satisfaction ere they turned again to watch the proceedings in the court-yard. Burrhea might have been from three to five minutes enjoying his draught of blood—not more—his head turned toward the man-eater all the time, and his eyes for the most part fixed on him. The man-eater, on his side, gave no indications of uneasiness. An impatient snort or two escaped him; that was all. With protruded neck and cocked ears and glaring eye-balls, and twitching tail, he watched his enemy intently, still standing in an easy attitude of attention, as if prepared for immediate action.

"At length Burrhea was satisfied, or else no more blood was forthcoming; and taking his claws out of the dead animal, and shaking himself as he did so, he began to go stealthily round the court-yard, like a cat stealing a march on a rat. He made no noise whatever. The large paws were placed one after the other upon the ground, the soft ball of the foot preventing any sound. Slowly were they raised and depressed, while the long back as slowly made its way forward—now raised at the shoulders, now at the hind quarters as the legs were moved—the skin glancing backwards and forward as if hardly belonging to the bones and muscles beneath it. It was not a scene to be forgotten; the King and his attendant females gazing intently above; the European courtiers straining with eyes and ears to catch every movement and every sound; the man-eater in the center of the court-yard slowly turning as the tiger turned, his head and ears and neck ever the same; the tiger stealing along so cat-like in aspect, and yet so gigantic in strength. Not a sound was audible but the grating of the man-eater's feet, as they were raised and lowered again—not a sound other; but all was mute expectation and anxious gazing.

"At length the tiger bounded with the rapidity of lightning upon his enemy; the horse was fully prepared It had evidently been Burrhea's intention to seize the head and fore quarters; but the man-eater was too adroit for that; and, by a quick diving motion of his head and shoulders, had received his antagonist upon his muscular haunches behind. The claws sank deeply into the flesh while the hind-feet of the tiger made a grasp or two at the fore-legs of the horse; but there was no time to secure his position. The man-eater lashed up with his iron heels into the air with tremendous vigor, and in a moment Burrhea was sprawling on the ground, not at all the better for his attack. We could hardly perceive, however, that he had been thrown upon his back—partly against the bamboo railing, partly on the ground—when he was on his legs again, gyrating as before, moving stealthily round as if nothing had happened With an indignant snort the man-eater resumed his former position, and awaited another spring, his muscular haunches bearing evidence in their lacerated skin, and in the gouts of blood which disfigured them, of the sharpness and strength of the tiger's claws.

"'Burrhea will kill him yet!' exclaimed the King, turning to the nearest European. 'Undoubtedly, your Majesty,' said the courtier. Cat-like did Burrhea pace round and round again, his broad round head ever turned towards his wary antagonist. Each foot with its brawny paw was lifted and lowered again in succession, noiselessly as before, while the beautifully streaked hide played over the bones and muscles freely. With distended nostrils and flashing eyes the man-eater watched again as intently as ever, exactly in the same position as formerly, the head and neck lowered and protruded, the ears cocked rigidly, the eyes fixed in a glazing stare at the stealthily gliding tiger, and one fore-foot ever slightly advanced, to admit, doubtless, of that rapid diving and thrusting forward of the shoulder and head, by which he had formerly succeeded in getting his antagonist on his hind quarters. For fully eight or ten minutes did this momentous circling of Burrhea continue, the man-eater ever facing him and gazing intently, an angry snort now and then bursting from the horse as he turned. Burrhea opened his huge jaws widely at times, and licked up the drops of blood which still clung to them; and once (but once) he paused for a moment over the dead mare, as if meditating a second draught. But the irresolution was only momentary, and the monotonous walk was continued.

"At length the decisive moment arrived again. Burrhea was standing almost over the carcass of the dead mare, when he sprang once more—sprang so suddenly, that we in the gallery started at the sight, expecting it though we were; and more than one of the attendants on the King gave forth a stifled exclamation of alarm. There was no premonitory growl or display of any kind. It was as if by galvanic agency the tiger had been suddenly lifted into the air in the course of his monotonous gyration. Man-eater was not taken by surprise, however. His head was ducked still lower than before; his fore quarters seemed to glide under the springing assailant, and again were Burrhea's claws dug deeply into his haunches, but further over on this occasion than on the former. The broad round head of the tiger projected for an instant beyond the tail of the horse, while his hind claws were sunk deeply into the man-eaters breast. For an instant we saw him quivering unsteadily in that position, crouching with his belly on the horse's back, clinging to his prey for an instant, but only for an instant. Again did the ferocious stallion lash up with his hind feet, almost as if he would throw himself over on his back. His iron heels came with crushing force against the jaw of Burrhea, and in a moment the tiger was sprawling helplessly upon the ground, once more stretched upon his back.

"It was but for an instant, however, that Burrhea thus lay; but, when he resumed his feet, and began running round the bamboo enclosure, it was quite apparent that it was no longer to attack again, but to escape. His jaw was broken, and with his tail between his legs, he cried out loudly with pain as he ran round, not unlike a whipped spaniel. The man-eater watched him as before, intently, evidently fearful of a ruse, and finding it difficult to keep up with his rapid motion. But it was no ruse: Burrhea was looking eagerly for some method of escape, crying almost piteously as he did so. 'His jaw is broken,' was whispered by some of the male servants below, who watched him from the veranda. The sound reached our gallery, and the King heard it. 'Burrhea's jaw is broken!' he exclaimed to us; 'shall we let him escape?' 'As your Majesty pleases,' was our answer. The signal was given, the door was opened, the bamboos opposite to it raised, and Burrhea rushed in to bury himself in the furthest corner.

"Proudly did the man-eater snort and paw when he found himself thus victor. He first scampered up to the mare, and snuffed there a moment; and then spurning her with his foot, with head and tail arched, he trotted to one point and another of the bamboo railing, as if anxious to get at the attendant servants. His blood was up; and tigers or men, he did not mind which were his assailants now, or which he assailed."

Great Breach of Promise Case--The Damages $100,000!

Miss Effie Carstang, a lady of twenty-five or thirty years, entered a suit against Mr. Henry Shaw, an old and respected citizen of St. Louis, Missouri, who has numbered about sixty-five winters, for damages to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, for an alleged breach of promise of marriage, and the trial took place in that city last week. Mr. Shaw is a gentleman of great wealth. He defended the case by offering a letter in evidence from the lady, to show that he offered to marry her, but she refused. The Court, however, excluded the letter, but the reporters seized and copied it. The following is a correct copy of the letter. It was written in the spring of 1858, and was addressed to Mr. Shaw:—

"When I last saw you, I said that I would see you again or write to you, but delayed doing either, as I hoped your sense of right would lead you to seek an interview with me. I write to you now not because it is a pleasant task, nor do I do it to annoy you, for I believe I am so constituted, that it is my disposition always to heal, rather than wound; but, at the same time, I consider myself under all circumstances, as bound to protect and defend my own person, honor and reputation, let who will suffer; and I write now to remind you, that by your attentions the last two years to me, and our engagement, and your subsequent desertion of me, you have attacked and compromised all three. It is unnecessary for me to say that I am much put out and dissatisfied, though perhaps you think I ought to have had better sense than to have believed you. It is over two years since you sought my acquaintance and requested permission to visit me, and offered me references as to your character and position, and very soon after came your proposal to marry. You said your wealth and business did not answer for company; you were very lonesome; that your mother was too old to live with you; that your single sister would probably die, even before your mother, and Mrs. Morrisse had her husband for company. After delaying some time to test the sincerity of your offers, becoming satisfied that you really desired me for your wife, I accepted you, and from that time you were a constant visitor. You sent me flowers and fruit and made me presents from time to time, and frequently invited me to ride, and seemed to desire that our relation should be made public. You invited me to meet friends at your house in the city, and to ride out to your country seat. You sent me a piano and desired that I should employ a teacher. You told sister that you were going to take me away, and finally named the time when you would marry, and I made preparations for the same. The time arrived, and you postponed it, on account of your desire to perfect your arrangements in relation to the botanical garden. You removed the piano to your own house, under the pretence that you desired it on account of a musical party to be held there. Finally, you cease to visit me, and when I become solicitous for fear you are ill, and call at your house, you insult me with a proposition which any true woman would reject. During our engagement, I have avoided general society, and declined the attentions of others, and have endeavored to please you in every way.—Your attentions have been remarked by many, and I am now subjected to all the unhappiness and mortification arising from your desertion of me. Had you called on me as a gentleman, and offered any reasonable excuse for this treatment, or simply ask me to release you from this engagement, and assigned no reason, I trust I should have had too much pride not to have complied at once; but your desertion, as it is, deserves whatever punishment the opinion of a just public may visit upon its author; and you may rest assured that if my counsel so advises, such reparation shall be demanded of you as our laws grant to my sex under the circumtances.

Yours, E. C. CARSTANG."

The evidence adduced in the case, shows the plaintiff to have been a worthy and deserving young lady; the daughter of an Episcopal clergyman, noted for her amiable deportment and correct behaviour.—The damages awarded by the jury, (one hundred thousand dollars,) which are the heaviest ever given in America on such a case, were doubtless the result of the insulting offer made to the young lady by the defendant, and for which they thought he ought to suffer. It is a common practice for parties at law or variance, to traduce one another's character; in this case the defendant overreached himself in so doing, and excited a sympathy towards the lady, which in a few minutes time brought forth the verdict of an independent fortune out of Mr. Shaw's coffers.

A HORRID PUNISHMENT.—At Sing Sing State prison, the "shower bath" punishment for refractory convicts has been abolished since the death of a prisoner a few months ago, under its operation. In its place a mode of punishment which appears to combine all the refinements of torture has been substituted:—It is a box about three feet square, and as high as the tallest man. As it stands up a door opens so as to let the convict step in, and there is a hole in the top through which his head projects. After he is in a sliding collar of wood fits around the neck and keeps him in place. A false bottom of this box is raised or lowered, by means of a pully, so that it may be adapted to the altitude of the man to be punished. This false bottom is pulled up, so that the convict's legs are bent as if about to kneel. He cannot straighten up—he cannot kneel down without throwing his entire weight upon his neck—he must bear his weight by the muscles alone, for his knees cannot touch anything to sustain them in position.

TWO SMOKES FOR EIGHT DOLLARS.—We were present at a trial before Justice Johnstone, wherein the plaintiff claimed damages of the defendant for $8, or the amount paid for a Turkey-foot pipe, beautifully carved out of mahogany. It seems the plaintiff, a Mr. Ludlow, bought at the celebrated cigar store of Gezzi, on Fourth st., a fancy pipe, for which he paid $8. After filling it with the aromatic "scaffarath," he puffed away at a great rate, and at the second charge the pipe burnt through. He complained to Gezzi that the pipe would not stand fire. "Sacre," said Gezzi, "you don't know how to smoke—you dink de pipe is one furnace—smoke him easy until he get coat over him—here is my pipe—I smoke him one year, two years, and he is good yet. You put in much tobac, shove him down fast, and den go like a steamboat—dat's no good." "Well, my friend, the pipe has burned through, and I can't smoke it any more." "Vell, you have two good smokes—very well—dat is $4 a piece—great luxury, dat, ha!" The case was non-suited.—St. Louis Dem.

TO MAKE TOMATO FIGS.—Pour boiling water over the tomatoes in order to remove the skins; then weigh them and place them in a stone jar, with as much sugar as you have tomatoes, and let them stand two days; then pour off the syrup and boil it, and skim it until no scum rises. Then pour it over the tomatoes, and let them stand two days, as before; then boil and skim again. After the third time, they are fit to dry, if the weather is good; if not, let them stand in the syrup until dry weather; then place on large earthen plates or dishes, and put them in the sun to dry, which will take about a week; after which pack them down in small wooden boxes, with fine white sugar between every layer. Tomatoes prepared in this manner will keep for years.

MAKING VINEGAR.—Vinegar, according to a writer in the Gennessee Farmer is cheaply made. We publish his recipe;—To eight gallons of clean rain water, add three quarts of molasses; put into a good cask, shake well and add two or three spoonsful of good yeast cakes. If in summer, place the cask in the sun; if in winter, near the chimney where it may be warm. In ten or fifteen days add to the liquor a sheet of brown paper, torn in strips, dipped in molasses, and good vinegar will be produced. The paper will in this way form what is called "mother," or the life of the vinegar."

The War.

It is useless to attempt to follow the movements of the belligerent armies engaged in the present war, from telegraphic reports. The names of places are so mixed up and given so imperfectly that it is impossible to trace them on the maps. All we know is that there was a fight and that one of the armies was repulsed.—But as the exact locality and time of the battle are matters of minor importance, we content ourselves with an account of the numbers engaged in strife, the killed, wounded and taken prisoners.

In the late battle it is estimated that over 300,000 men were engaged. Just think of it. On the first of January last the whole regular army of the United States numbered only 12,943 men, of all ranks, from general officers down to privates. Now imagine this army and another of the same size cut down in a single day, and some idea may be formed of the results of the late conflict. It is hard to form an idea of the extent of territory such a vast body of men as are now engaged in strife would cover, except by computation. Let us suppose the belligerent armies to have been united and thrown into procession—double-file—allowing one yard to each file, which is the space allotted in military discipline, and we have a procession over 80 miles in length. Again, the number reported to have been killed in the late engagement is 25,000. Now suppose the killed to have been placed on one pile, side by side and in tairs, allowing each man to occupy two feet in breadth and one foot in depth, and we have a pyramid of dead bodies 100 feet wide and 500 feet high.—From these calculations, which we think will be found correct, our readers may be able to form some idea of the horrors of war; and as the present strife is only at its beginning, and other more important and necessarily more destructive battles will be fought, the number of human lives to be sacrificed is fearful to contemplate.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.—The publishers of this widely circulated and popular illustrated weekly journal of mechanics and science, announce that it will be enlarged on the first of July, and otherwise greatly improved, containing sixteen pages instead of eight, the present size, which will make it the largest and cheapest scientific journal in the world; it is the only journal of its class that has ever succeeded in this country, and maintains a character for authority in all matters of mechanics, science and the arts, which is not excelled by any other journal published in this country or in Europe. Although the publishers will incur an increased expense of $8,000 a year by this enlargement, they have determined not to raise the price of subscription, relying upon their friends to indemnify them in this increased expenditure, by a corresponding increase of suscribers. Terms $2 a year, or 10 copies for $15. Specimen copies of the paper with a pamphlet of information to inventors, furnished gratis, by mail, on application to the publishers. MUNN & Co. No. 37 Park Row, New York.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK.—We have received Godey for July. Unlike most other Magazines, it is always improving, and this number excels all the rest. It is the Ladies magazine, and no family should be without it. Published by L. A. Godey, Philadelphia, at 25 cts. a number, or $3 per year.

The Gardner Fraud.

The telegraph announced a day or two since that the Government had recovered $180,000 of the total amount lost by the Gardner fraud. It will be remembered that a Dr. Gardner, some years after the late war with Mexico, made a fictitious claim for about $200,000 on the Mexican indemnity fund, which claim, bolstered by legal and fraudulent vouchers, was finally allowed, and the money paid over by the Government. Gardner was subsequently tried and convicted at Washington for the fraud, and committed suicide in prison, leaving $130,000 of the money on deposit with the New York Life and Trust Company. The public administrator of New York took out letters of administration upon the estate, but the Government intervened and enjoined the deposit. After years of litigation, the principal of this sum has been awarded to the Government, and the accumulation of interest, about $40,000, to the estate.—The former has been paid over to the sub-treasury at New York.

On Editors.—An editor, who lived at a hotel, being absent one night, the landlord took the liberty of allowing a stranger to occupy his room. In the morning the ungrateful lodger left the following, written on the margin of one of the editor's old newspapers:

"I slept in an editor's bed last night,
And others may say what they please;
I say there's one editor in the world
That certainly takes his ease.

"When I thought of my humble cot, away,
I could not suppress a sigh,
But thought, as I rolled in the feathery nest,
How easy Editors lie! STRANGER."

☞ Queer.—The following was written in a neat female hand, on a letter which passed through the Pittsburgh post office yesterday:

"Railroads, steamboats, horses, stages
All of you are paid your wages—
All of you, for nothing better
Than to take this little letter.
"Should the document miscarry,
"Uncle Sam' will see "Old Harry;"
To prevent such a collision
I present unto your vision:—

IMPORTANT FOREIGN NEWS.

Four Days Later From Europe.

Greatest Battle of the Age!

THE AUSTRIANS DEFEATED!

25,000 Austrians Killed and Wounded.

12,000 FRENCH AND SARDINIANS KILLED AND WOUNDED.

5,000 AUSTRIANS PRISONERS.

BREADSTUFFS LOWER.

The steamship Anglo-Saxon, from Liverpool on the 8th inst., arrived at Quebec on the 18th inst., bringing four days later intelligence.

All qualities of Breadstuffs had slightly declined.

A great battle has been fought near Milan, in which the Austrians were defeated with the loss of twenty-five thousand killed and disabled.

Five thousand Austrians were taken prisoners.

The French loss is stated at twelve thousand.

The Austrians have evacuated Milan.

A desperate battle was fought at Magenta, on the 4th of June, between the allied army under the Emperor Napoleon, and the Austrian army under Gen. Hess, in which unlimited forces were engaged on both sides. The Emperor Napoleon, in his dispatches to the Empress at the Tuillieries, claims a decisive victory saying that his army took 7,000 prisoners, disabled 12,000, and captured three cannons and two standards. He estimates the loss of his own army at 3,000, but it was rumored in Paris that the French loss was between 9,000 and 12,000. It is reported that there were from 150,000 to 180,000 Austrians, and 130,000 French engaged in the battle. The Austrian accounts differ widely from those of the French. Their bulletin speaks of various battles, being fought with varying success on both sides. It was still undecided on the night of the 6th, as to who gained the victory. Great losses on both sides are reported. Gen. Espinasse, of the 2nd corps d'armee, was killed, and Marshall Canrobert, of the third corps, was mortally wounded. Gen. Maurice McMahon, commanding the second corps d'armee, had been created Marshal and Duke d'Magento as a reward for his bravery on the battle field.

Five of the French Marshals and Generals were wounded. Marshal Count Baraguay D'Hilliers has been superseded in his command of the first corps d'armee by Gen. Forey.

Four of the Austrian generals and two staff officers were wounded at the battle.

There had been a general revolt at Milan, and the people had declared in favor of the King of Sardinia. The Austrians retired from Milan, but the city had not yet been occupied by the French.

Later rumors detract from the French the victory at Magenta.

It was believed that proposals of peace would follow the entrance of the French into Milan.

The city of Paris had been illuminated in honor of the victory of the French arms at Magenta. The Paris Bourse was active and threes had advanced.

The latest news by the Europa, reporting the Austrians in retreat across the Ticino, is fully confirmed. The French crossed the Ticino at Buffalora and Turbigo. There was considerable fighting at both places.

ENGLAND.—The Queen delivered her opening speech to Parliament on the 7th. She laments the outbreak of the war, and says she did all she could to prevent it, and proclaims her strict and impartial neutrality. She says the navy has been increased beyond the authority granted by Parliament, and asks for its sanction She recommended the reopening of diplomatic intercourse with Naples. She expresses the hope that the reform question will be settled at the next session.

(LATEST DESPATCH.)

QUEBEC, June 19th.—The Anglo Saxon having arrived, the papers received furnish some details of the battle of Magento. It appears that on the 4th inst, the French troops were under orders to cross the Ticino at Turbego.—The Emperor in his official bulletin says this order was well executed, though the enemy in great force offered a determined resistance. The road way was narrow, and during two hours, the Imperial Guards sustained, unsupported, the shock of the enemy. Meantime Gen. M'Mahon made himself master of Magento, and after the most sanguinary conflict, the enemy was repulsed at every point.

It is said that the Austrians, in the precipitation of their evacuation of Milan, left their cannon and treasure behind. The Emperor says that the troops have captured 12,000 Austrian muskets. The municipaltiy of Milan presented an address to King Victor Emanuel, in the presence of the Emperor. The King was to enter Milan on Tuesday, the 28th.—The Austrian official bulletin says that the conflict was desperate between the first and third army corps, and the enemy in a considerable force. The contest was undecided, and continued on Sunday. Our troops threw themselves on the enemy, with ardor and perseverance, worthy the most glorious feats of the Imperial arms. A Vienna despatch, authenticated in the Frankfort papers, say that, through the opportune arrival of Count Clair Gallis and his corps, the Austrians were victorious after a hot fight, and the French were thrown back over the Ticino. The London Times says that there was very hard fighting at Buffalora, with varying success. The battle lasted till late at night, and was continued the next day at Magenta.

☞ A very remarkable phenomenon at sea is reported by Captain Rogers, of the bark Rolla, from Galveston. On the 4th ult., in the Gulf of Mexico, the vessel passed through a thick "scum" of the water which extended as far as the eye could see from N. W. to S. E.—The substance resembled coulter, and gave out a smell peculiar to that article. The ocean also gave off steam, as if some hot substance had been poured into it. The phenomenon was attributed to a volcanic eruption at the bottom of the Gulf. Immediately afterwards the vessel experienced a violent hurricane.

TOBACCO AND WHITE LABOR.—A Richmond paper states that there is more tobacco on storage and for inspection at that place than has hitherto been warehoused at any season, and that it has been found advantageous to call in white labor to prepare it for market. Until the present year negro labor has been used exclusively in all the departments necessary to fit tobacco for delivery and exportation, but now as a matter of economy it is found that gangs of white laborers can perform the work in a satisfactory manner. It seems to be thought that the comparative cheapness of white labor will compel the inspectors to dispense with slave labor almost entirely.

A TRIFLER.—A young lady recently applied to a city lawyer of Richmond, Va., for advice as to how she would proceed to obtain damages against any individual who trifles with her "feelings." The following note was submitted in proof of the gentleman's endeavors to win the affections of Juliet:

"Dear——, I send u bi the boy a buckett of flours. They is like my love for u. The nite shrid mones keps dark. The dog fenll meues I am ure slaive. Rosis red and poets pail Mi luv for u shall never falle."

ACCORDING TO YOUR FAITH SO SHALL IT BE.—On Wednesday night, an inoffensive and pious colored man was brought into the Central Station, upon the charge of a son of the Emerald Isle, who was himself heavily charged with blue ruin, and as is generally the case, a dose or two had caused him to see double, and his own gymnastics he charged upon the inoffensive negro. He alleged that this son of Ham made an assault upon him. The negro, who was unwilling to be locked up in the cells, asserted that he was not the aggressor, (which the sequel proved to be true,) but that the Irishman, being top-heavy and unable to navigate, ran against him. His story not being credited, Captain Brasiliers ordered him to be locked up. A short time after being put back, the officers in the station-house were surprised to hear one of the prisoners offering up a fervent prayer. Upon looking into one of the rooms, the negro was discovered upon his knees, and praying as earnestly as if he was in church. Upon concluding his prayer, he arose and quoted the passage "Knock, and it shall be opened unto you." He then went to work and argued with himself the truth of the above passage. "If," said he, "the Bible is true, my prayer will be heard." Just as he concluded his argument, turnkey Bush, from orders received from Justice McAllister, threw open the prison door and informed him that he was at liberty to depart. It was amusing to see the expression which lit up his face at the announcement; he stepped into the passage, and casting one look into his recent prison, exclaimed, "Bless the Lord, my prayer was heard," and he quitted the station-house. —Baltimore Patriot.

ORIGIN OF THE COURTEZAN'S JEST.—A gentle woman in London after having buried six husbands, found a gentleman hardy enough to make her a wife once more. For several months their happiness was mutual, a circumstance which seemed to pay no great compliment to the former partners of her bed, who, as she said, had disgusted her by their sottishness and infidelity. In the view of knowing the real character of his amorous mate, the gentleman began frequently to absent himself, to return at late hours, and when he did return to appear as if intoxicated. At first reproaches, but afterwards menaces, were the consequence of this conduct. The gentleman persisted, and seemed every day to become more addicted to his bottle. One evening, when she imagined him dead drunk, she unsewed a leaden weight from one of the sleeves of her gown, and having melted it, she approached her husband, who pretended still to be asleep, in order to put it into his ear through a pipe. Convinced of her wickedness, the gentleman started up and seized her; when, having procured assistance, he secured her until the morning, and conducted before a magistrate, who committed her to prison. The bodies of her six husbands were dug up, and as marks of violence were still discoverable upon each of them, the proof of her guilt appeared so strong upon her trial, that she was condemned and executed. To this circumstance is England indebted for that useful regulation by which no corpse can be interred in the kingdom without a legal inspection.

THE TORNADO IN MORGAN COUNTY.—A correspondent of the Springfield Journal of May 31, writes from Jacksonville the annexed account of the recent great tornado in Morgan county: "Mrs. Route, one of the killed, was blown from a window, and carried a distance of over a hundred yards, and when found, scarcely a particle of clothing had remained upon her body. Estella, daughter of George Vanzant, was blown from the same house into the cistern, where she was found drowned. A little boy was carried by the wind for some distance, and when found in a tree, with his arm broken, exclaimed, in childish innocence, "Pa, when I was up there ever so high, I saw a great big wagon fly over my head." This wagon belonged to Jesse Henry, Esq., and though made with heavy iron axles, not a vestige of it has been found. Houses were destroyed, and not a piece of timber left to tell where they originally stood. Barns were twisted from their foundations as though they were so many sacks of feathers and deposited, in one instance, a half a mile from its former locality. The school house of the neighborhood was lifted from its position, and turned around as completely as though directed by an experienced architect.—Horses and cattle were carried nearly a mile, and we are told that one poor beast had her horns literally driven into her head. Stock of every description could be seen for miles around, with mutilated heads, broken limbs, and some with rails driven into their bodies, writhing most terribly in the agonies of death."

PANIC AMONG FARMERS.—The Courant, published in Lawrence county, says that on Tuesday, flour was $10 per barrel in New Castle.—The warehouse of Mr. Kissick was thronged all morning with teams and persons wishing to purchase flour. Teams came from Mercer, Sharon, New Wilmington, and all sections. We heard it stated that flour was selling in New Wilmington at $10 per barrel. Wheat is not to be had at any price. A gentleman offered for one lot of about one hundred bushels, three dollars per bushel, which was refused! The people are going wild. Farmers who have wheat at home, are rushing to town and buying flour up. Those who have no need for the article at all, are buying at such prices as to make it almost impossible for poor people, who really need it for bread, to procure it. The Courant thinks the damage to the cereal crops greatly overrated.

A GIRL ON FIRE—TERRIBLE SPECTACLE.—A daughter of Mr. David Keller, of Stroudsburg, Pa., while passing through the house on Sunday evening last, with a fluid lamp in her hand, spilt some fluid over the top, as is supposed, which ignited and instantly set her clothes on fire. Being clad in light material, the flames rapidly spread, and the poor girl frightened and in agony, imprudently rushed out of doors, where the fire was finally put out. The whole time from the appearance of the girl on the street, until she fell upon the ground, was not over one minute. The flames during that time gleamed up and illuminated the whole street, and the scene is described by an eye witness as horrible beyond description. She died in a few hours.

☞ It's a pity that laws cannot be made to punish all kinds of scoundrelism. A young lady in Cincinnati was to be led to the altar on Monday evening last, by one to whom she had given her heart's affections. Friends and acquaintances had been invited to the marriage ceremony, and a large number had convened.—The hour arrived, yet the bridegroom came not. The bride and guests were in waiting, and the hour passed by, and still the bridegroom delayed making his appearance. At length the postman called at the house with a letter for the intended bride. It was from her betrothed, and contained the curls of himself and bride—he having been married the night previous to another. What punishment does the dastard deserve who could be guilty of an act like this?

DIABOLICAL PLOTS.—At Chicago one John McLaughlin is on trial for throwing off a train of cars on the Chicago and Galena Railroad, by which deed a man was killed and several persons injured. On the person of McLaughlin, at the time of his arrest, were found a number of letters from abandoned females in Buffalo, and other parties, going to show the existence of an organized band of murderers, whose operations were conducted by means of poison, arson and railway obstruction.

DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE.—The Dallas (Texas) Herald, of 11th of May, says:—"A gentleman, just from Fort Worth, reports a most painful calamity that occurred last Thursday evening, near night, on the west fork of the Trinity, about seven miles above Fort Worth. A gentleman, living very near West Fork, on returning home during the heavy rain that was falling, found his house was being rapidly surrounded with the flood that was rushing down the low lands bordering on the stream. He had a wife and seven children—took two of them on his shoulders and carried them over the water to a shed on the premises, placed them upon it, and started back for the other children and his wife. He had not gone far when a cry from the shed drew his attention; he looked back, and discovered it floating off with his two children on it. He rushed after it, and, after following it nearly half a mile, succeeded in placing his children upon a place of safety. Night was rapidly coming on, and he returned to save his wife and children; but alas! he found not even a vestige of his home; no sign of wife or child; and, to add to the horrors of the scene, darkness was fast settling down upon the rushing flood, whose appalling roar deafened the cries of his family, even if they then lived. The unhappy father has heard nothing from them yet and every effort made to find their bodies has proved unavailing. The rise of the water is represented as being unparalleled in the history of the country, for the suddenness and volume.

INDIANS EXAMINING THE "SWIFT WAGONS."—A correspondent, who has recently crossed from the Pacific on the overland route, says: "The Indians of the Cherokee nation are very anxious to have the route through their territory. They call the mail coach the "swift wagon." A deputation from the heads of the nation have waited upon the "Great Chief, Butterfield of the swift wagon," as they call him, and asked him to run the wagons through their country. They are rich, and great slaveholders, owning more niggers than their neighbors in Arkansas. Their country is a beautiful one. They are jealous of the whites, fearing—it is probable—that they will be driven from their homes. The Camanches and interior Indians look upon the "swift wagon" with great curiosity and wonder. They have shown no malice or ill will as yet. Some six hundred of them lately stopped the mail coach and surrounded it. They wished to see the "swift wagon," and what was in it. They detained it five or six hours, until they had inspected it; looked under the seats; turned over the mail bags; felt of them; looked at the wheels, poles, harness and trappings, to their satisfaction, with many an interjection, "Ugh! Ugh!"—They then told the conductor to "go on with the 'Swift wagon.'"—(here many an "ugh" was granted with satisfaction)—but, "ugh!" "no railroad—no railroad," and all granted a hearty "ugh!" of approbation and comment.

WATERS OF THE GLOBE DECREASING!—M. Vincent maintains that the waters of the globe are gradually decreasing, founding his opinion on the fact that vast deserts of sand mixed up with the salt and the remains of marine animals, of which the surface of the globe is partly composed, were formerly inland seas which have insensibly become dry. According to M. Vincent, the Caspian, the Dead Sea, &c., will become dry in their turn, also—when their beds will be sandy deserts; and the inland seas, whether they have only one outlet, as the Mediterranean, the Red Sea, the Baltic, &c., or whether they have several, as the Gulf of Mexico, the seas of O'Kotsk, of Japan, China, &c., will at some future time cease to communicate with the great basins of the ocean. They will become in and seas, true Caspians, and in due time will become likewise dry. On all sides the waters of rivers are seen to carry forward in their course the soil of the continent M. Vincent maintains, therefore, that there is an actual diminution of liquid water.

A BOY'S HEAD CUT OFF BY A LOCOMOTIVE.—An extra train, containing several of the leading officers and stockholders of the Cleveland and Toledo railroad, was approaching Grafton, coming towards the city at a rapid rate. Just before the engine reached the Black River Bridge, a small boy ran up the bank of the river and upon the abutment. He was a foot or so from the rail, and evidently fancied himself secure from all danger. The engineer, Mr. Rust, saw him, and shouted to him to get out of the way. The boy heard him, but did not stir from his perilous position. He was laughing and indulging in all sorts of boyish grimaces, when the engine struck him, taking his head entirely off! The engineer did not see the boy until he was nearly upon him, and of course it was impossible to stop the locomotive in time to save him.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

☞ The Kansas correspondent of the Boston Journal who is on his way to Pike's Peak, says that Mr. Greeley attracts great attention from the settlers. Every one, says he, "seems curious to see him. I doubt if Queen Victoria or President Buchanan would 'draw' better. On the prairies yesterday, half a dozen miles from any house, two travelers stopped our coach to learn whether he was on board. One farmer asked me, a day or two since, if Horace Greeley had failed in business, and was going to Pike's Peak to dig gold! One of the drivers inquired to-day if it was true that Horace Greeley was about to start a newspaper at Manhattan! And at one of the stations yesterday, an Indian girl volunteered the information that 'Horace Greeley, in his old white coat,' had just passed in the coach before us. The great journalist is certainly widely known even on the border of the desert."

THREATENED RIOT AT NEWARK, N. J.—A serious trouble has arisen in Newark, N. J., between the authorities of the Trinity Church (Episcopal) and the citizens. Permission has been granted to the church by the Common Council to build an addition to their church edifice on the public park. The citizens object to any such disposition of the property, and under the lead of several of the most prominent among them, cut down a fence on Wednesday evening which had been erected by the church preparatory to commencing to build. A squad of police was called out, but they did not arrive on the ground until after the demolition had been accomplished. Much excitement exists, and more serious trouble is anticipated

☞ Bayard Taylor says in one of his latest articles, giving a very humorous account of his way of life on his first visit to London:

"In a word, my associations were not of the most respectable character—I was, reluctantly, forced to this conclusion. But how could it be helped? When a man has but three shillings a day, he cannot keep four shilling society without cheating somebody. I lodged in a vulgar hole, it is true; but, then, I paid my reckoning."

Honest, Bayard! A man who commences life in this manner is sure of success.

☞ A Monster Distillery, recently erected in Bellevernoon, on the Monongahela river, at a cost of $200,000, is now turning out thirty barrels of whisky per day. Just think of it—one hundred and eighty barrels of whisky per week, or almost ten thousand barrels a year, manufactured at one establishment! If all the good to be derived from this immense fountain could be placed in one end of the balance, and all the crime and misery in the other, what a contrast it would present!

DR. MCMASTER AND HIS "SIXTHLY."—When Dr. McMaster made his great speech on the Seminary question, in the Presbyterian General Assembly, at Indianapolis, our reporter, says the Cincinnati Gazette, made arrangements to get his manuscript as fast as he read it, in order to send it to Cincinnati. The Doctor laid the sheets on the table before him, as he finished reading them. At ten minutes to five, (the hour the train leaves,) there was quite a pile laying there, but the reporter did not like to take them without saying, "By your leave."—He waited for the Doctor to pause till he dare not wait any longer. It was already five minutes to five, so he seized the pile of manuscript and started.

Shortly after the Doctor came to "Sixthly." "Where's my Sixthly?" said he. He turned over his manuscript, but no Sixthly! At last, with a perplexed expression on his simple, child like face, (for though a very large man, with a venerable white head, he has a face mounted on his big body more child-like than that of Horace Greeley,) the Doctor said, "I wonder if that reporter has carried off my Sixthly?" It was even so. "Sixthly" was already on the train, bound for Cincinnati, and just as the Doctor discovered the fact, the whistle of the departing train sounded, seeming to say "Got your sp-ee-ch sp-ee-ch sp-ee-ch." "Got your sp-ee-ch sp-ee-ch." The Assembly was convulsed with laughter.

A RARE ANIMAL.—Andrew McCulloch, a fisherman on the Pennsylvania Roalroad, killed one and captured another young otto in the Snake Rock Hole, a mile or two below Johnstown.—He discovered three of them in the water, and commenced stoning them, and succeeded in thus killing one, when another of them swam ashore and he captured it. The third and the supposed mother of the other two, made its escape.—McCulloch has the captured one still in custody. It is said to be a very ferocious little critter, and will permit no familiarity with it on the part of any one. This species of animal is very rare in populated districts, and is not often seen in this vicinity

"THE GREAT UNITED STATES."—The census of the United States shows that we have two millions and a half of farmers, one hundred thousand merchants, sixty four thousand masons, and nearly two hundred thousand carpenters. We have fourteen thousand bakers to make our bread; twenty-four thousand lawyers to set us by the ears; forty thousand doctors to "kill or cure," and fifteen hundred editors to keep this motley mass in order, by the power of public opinion controlled and manufactured through the press.

CAST THY BREAD UPON THE WATERS, &c.—The managers of the Central Railroad have had the sagacity and the consideration to furnish large quantities of seed wheat to those farmers along the line of their road who are unable to buy. In one day 1800 bushels was sent from Chicago for free distribution on the line of the road. This is what we should call substantial charity, proving that corporations have souls, and that a crop of grain will increase railroad freight, railroad coffers, and advance railroad stocks.

SENTENCE OF A MAIL ROBBER.—Levi Long, the late postmaster at Pleasant Union, Somerset county, Pa., convicted at Pittsburgh of stealing a letter from the mails, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for fifteen years. Mr. Long previous to the commission of the crime of which he was convicted, stood very high in the community in which he lived, and it is said it was with much difficulty his neighbors could persuade him to accept the office of postmaster, for which they thought him peculiarly qualified.

CHAMBERS' LECTURE.—According to announcement, Rev. John Chambers lectured on the subject of temperance in the Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening last, to a large and appreciative audience. The lecturer did full justice to his subject, fulfilling the expectations of all, and especially those who wished the editors a scorching. He pictured the evils of indulging the appetite for strong drink and pointed out the way of escape; stigmatized the traffic in ardent spirits a disreputable business; condemned the practice of physicians recommending the use of spiritous liquors in their practice, and intimating that those who did so were fond of a glass themselves; and winding up with a regular broadside at editors who are so unfortunate as to receive a bottle or two of Ohio corn whiskey manufactured into brandy, and tell who they received it from. In this respect, however, we can not perceive that an editor is any more liable to censure than are men who profess to be the advocates of temperance and yet vote for State and Legislative officers who, if not members of the Liquor League of this State, are known to be opposed to the cause of temperance. The only difference we can discover between them is, that the sayings of the one party are public and the actions of the other are secret, and that the effects, virtually, of the latter are much worse than those of the former, especially those which called forth the animadversions of the lecturer. We do not bring this observe in palliation of the offence complained of by the Rev. lecturer, nor is it applicable to all temperance men, but we argue that so long as men are returned to our legislature who are opposed to the passage of a prohibitory liquor law, and returned, too, by the votes of temperance men who will sacrifice their love for the cause rather than their political opinions and preferments, so long will the traffic in ardent spirits be a legitimate business and claim respectability, the denunciations of the Press and the Pulpit to the contrary notwithstanding.

Had there been no Division of the Sons of Temperance in this place, or no temperance lecturer at hand to comment thereupon, the short item which has caused a little fluttering would scarce have attracted a passing notice from the friends or foes of temperance, and would not have been construed to mean so much more than is said, or have afforded an opportunity to convert a mole hill into a mountain.

☞ S. A. Gibson, Agent for the "Farmer's Mutual Horse Thief Detecting and Insurance Company" of York, York county, Penn'a, will be in this place a part of this and next week, and may be found at the Altoona House. We have before referred to the character of this Company, and urged our farmers to have their horses insured in it. It was chartered some two years ago by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, for the purpose of suppressing horse stealing within the State, and for the better security of property generally, with a capital of $830,— ... The company insure on the following low terms, viz: 2 Horses for 5 years $2 75 and 25 cts. each additional horse, with a premium note of a few dollars only. Each horse insured is branded by the agent or the insured, with the Company's mark, letter (C) either on the right thigh, left shoulder, or under the mane, (the latter at a higher rate of insurance. In case a horse thus branded and insured is stolen, the Company is bound to search out the horse and return him to the owner free of charge, or pay its full value in cash, within 90 days, said value not to exceed $200 for any one horse, which is to be determined by 3 disinterested neighbors, where the same shall have happened.

☞ Rev. Alexander Clark, Editor of the School Visitor," says:

"We have had ample opportunities during the last few weeks, of witnessing the practical workings of the Iron City College. Having been in almost daily intercourse with the Teachers and Students, in the study room, and at the different recitations. We have only to say that thoroughness, and intense interest, characterize every performance. Students are arriving daily, from all parts of the country, and the number now in attendance is larger by far, than any similar Commercial College East or West. Mr. Jenkins the Principal, is a gentleman of the strictest integrity, and the entire faculty is composed of competent and faithful instructors. Every inducement announced in the widely diffused advertisements of this institution, is promptly carried out, in the course of study and discipline, which this college has won its present reputation."

YOUNG MEN'S DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION.—This Association gave two entertainments at Militia Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings last, to large and respectable audiences. Not having been present on either occasions, we can not speak by the book" as to the manner in which the young men acquited themselves, but a friend who is competent to judge informs us that they performed their parts in the very best style and gave full satisfaction Thus far this Association has been well conducted, nothing of a disorderly or obscene nature having occured. We hope it may continue to be so.

THE CROPS.—A rural friend informs us that the estimated damage to the grain crops in this region is greatly exaggerated, and that but little if any real injury has been done them by the late frosts. The late rains and warm suns have caused the grain to advance rapidly and all the frost-bitten grains are readily perceptible. He is of opinion that the good effects of the frost in killing the weevel overbalances the injury done to the grain. As to the fruit, the damage is likewise small, and there is every prospect of an abundant crop.

SUICIDE.—A German known by the name of "Dutch John," a painter by trade, residing in Williamsburg for a couple of years past, committed suicide there, on Tuesday night of last week, by cutting his arm with a razor and bleeding to death. He kept bachelor's hall, and the room in which he laid was a pool of blood. He was some 40 or 50 years of age, and of intemperate habits.—Register.

DEPARTED.—It was with feelings of deep regret that we bade adieu to our esteemed friend and excellent citizen and physician, Dr. C. J. Hirst, who, on Tuesday evening last, left this place to locate in Galesburg, Ill. By his removal our town has lost one of its most active and enterprising citizens, the medical profession of this county one of its most devoted and skillful practitioners, and his associates a warm hearted and agreeable companion. Many and unfeigned were the regrets expressed by those to whom he had ministered in sickness, when informed that he was about to give up his practice in this place. His sympathy for the suffering, their confidence in his superior skill and judgement as a physician, and his proverbial courtesy toward all with whom he came in contact, won him a lasting place in the memory of all who had the fortune to know him. We wish him prosperity in his new home in the West, and heartily recommend him to the people among whom he is about to locate as a physician worthy of their confidence and patronage.

In company with the Dr. departed our respected lady friend and well-known fashionable milliner, Miss Jennie Scott, who goes to spend a few months with her friends in the wilds of Illinois and Iowa. No doubt her lady friends who look to her as the only person who can rig them out in the pink of the fashion will be sorry to hear of her departure, but let them console themselves with the reflection that she will return again in September, in time to fit them up for a charge of season, unless, perchance, she should fall a victim to the cruel darts of cupid in that country where women are scarce and men good looking and rich. Her friends and patrons we know will hope that she may be spared such a fate, and will return to them again, as we believe they could not get along without her.

IN TOWN.—Col. H. J. Lombaert arrived in this place by the Fast Line, on Tuesday evening last, and took quarters at the Logan House, where he has been called upon by quite a number of his friends. Should he be called upon by every person in the town, with whom he is acquainted, he would receive a friend in each, as all who know him are his friends.—It is his first visit to our town since he vacated the office of General Superintendent, some fifteen or eighteen months since, and he receives a warm welcome from his old associates and employees. He is in attendance upon the meeting of the Grand Encampment of Knight Templars, which opened last evening.

Among others in attendance upon the Encampment we notice Maj. F. W. Boley and Col. Harry E. Gray, the gentlemanly Conductors on the Express and Fast Line Trains, who contribute largely to the popularity of the Penn'a Central; also our jovial cotemporary of the Tyrone Star, Capt Bell, looking none the worse of the late drubbing he received as a candidate for Brigade Inspector.

☞ The Blair County Teacher's Association will be represented in the State Teacher's Association, which meets in Westchester on the 2d of August next, by Prof. John Miller, G. H. Ramey, John Clingerman, Miss Philanda Hart, Miss Galbraith and Miss P. M. McCrum.

☞ We learn from the Register that the settees and other fixtures belonging to old "Fidelity Division S of T," of Hollidaysburg, were sold at public sale, a few days since, to close out the concern, the Division having gone down some years ago.

STOPPED AGAIN.—The Hollidaysburg Register of yesterday says that on Tuesday morning last the Central Bank entirely suspended the redemption of its paper. This looks like the "last wag of the hammer."

SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.—The members of the Altoona Sabbath School Association will remember that the Association meets in the United Brethren Church, on the first Friday evening in July.

J. S. OF A. STATE CONVENTION.—The Fifth State Convention of the Junior Sons of America, of Pennsylvania, will meet in Hollidaysburg on the 3d of August next.

A CHANCE.—Any person wishing a house and fixtures for keeping boarders, will find an advertisement in our advertiseing columns offering the same at a bargain.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dalley's Magical Pain Extractor.

In all diseases inflammation more or less predominates—now to allay inflammation strikes at the root of disease—hence an immediate cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR, and nothing else, will allay inflammation at once, and make a certain cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR will cure the following among a great catalogue of diseases: Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Chafes, Sore Nipples, Corns, Bunions, Bruises, Sprains, Bites, Poison, Chilblains, Piles, Scrofula, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Felons, Ear Ache, Piles, Sore Eyes, Gout, Swellings, Rheumatism, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Baldness, Erysipelas, Ringworm, Barbers' Itch, Small Pox, Measles, Rash, &c. &c.

To some it may appear incredulous that so many diseases should be reached by one article; such an idea will vanish when reflection points to the fact, that the salve is a combination of ingredients, each and every one applying a perfect antidote to its apposite disorder.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR

In its effects is magical, because the time is so short between disease and a permanent cure; and it is an extractor, as it draws all disease out of the affected part, leaving nature as perfect as before the injury. It is scarcely necessary to say that no house, work-shop, or manufactory should be one moment without it.

No Pain Extractor is genuine unless the box has upon it a steel plate engraving, with the name of Henry Dalley, Manufacturer.

Sold by G. W. Kessler, Altoona; George A. Jacobs, Hollidaysburg; and by all the Druggists and patent medicine dealers throughout the United States and Canadas.

DR. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE AND LIVER PILLS.

☞ A singular combination, but very effectual, as the following will show:

NEW YORK, November 20, 1852.

Knowing, from experience, the valuable qualities of Dr. McLane's Vermifuge and Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, I have for some time back considered it my duty, and made it my business, to make those articles known wherever I went among my friends. A short time ago I became acquainted with the case of a young girl, who seemed to be troubled with worms and liver complaint, at the same time, and had been suffering for some two months. Through my persuasion she purchased one bottle of Dr. McLane's Vermufuge, and one box of Liver Pills, which she took according to directions.—The result was, she passed a large quantity of worms, and thinks that one box more of the Pills will restore her to perfect health. Her name and residence can be learned by calling on E. L. Theal, Druggist, corner of Rutger and Monroe streets.

☞ Purchasers will be careful to ask for DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, manufactured by FLEMING BROS. of Pittsburgh, Pa. All other Vermifuges in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of FLEMING BROS.

MODERN INVENTIONS.

We know of no invention of modern times that deserves or is destined to occupy a higher niche in the temple of fame, than the discovery or invention of the Vegetable Epileptic Pills, for curing Epilepsy, or Falling Fits, Spasms, Cramps, and all the various modifications of Nervous Disease. Dr. Seth S. Hance, of 108 Baltimore st., Baltimore, Md., the inventor, is certainly entitled to the best wishes of all the benevolent portion of mankind, who experience a pleasure in the alleviation of human suffering. When Dr. Hance first prepared these Pills, he intended them solely for Fits, Cramps and Spasms; but subsequent experience satisfactorily proved to him, that in addition to their remarkable sanative properties in this class of diseases, they exerted a perfect control over the nervous system. He was then induced to try them in cases of Neuralgia, Tic Doloreaux, Nervous Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Incipient Paralysis, Hysteria, Muscular Debility, and a host of minor diseases, springing from a lack of nervous energy, in all of which his anticipations were crowned with the most sanguine success. Persons at a distance, by writing and sending a remittance to Dr. Hance, can have the medicine forwarded by mail to their post office address, he paying the postage. The prices are for a single box $3, two boxes, $5, or $24 per dozen. We have given his address above.

MOUNT VERNON.—A LETTER from the Hon. Edward Everett, to the publishers.

BOSTON, June 8th, 1859.

GENTLEMEN:—The box containing the view of MOUNT VERNON, arrived yesterday. I am greatly obliged to you for this pleasing specimen of printing in colors, which, besides its interest as a representation of the spot which, more than any other, endears itself to the heart of the country, is worthy of attention as a successful attempt to place work of art of this kind within the reach of the great mass of the community.

I remain Gentlemen, with many thanks, &c.,

Very respectfully yours,

EDWARD EVERETT.

The subscribers have just issued a picture of MOUNT VERNON, printed in FIFTEEN OIL COLORS, by a new and improved process by which pictures that have heretofore cost from $3 to $5 can be furnished for fifty cents.—The size of our engraving is 18 by 20 inches; on super calendered heavy plate paper.

Price FIFTY CENTS, postage paid to any part of the United States.

CELEBRATION.

The question is, shall we have a

Grand Celebration on the FOURTH of JULY, IN ALTOONA?

If it should take place, we would just say to the PATRIOTIC SONS & DAUGHTERS that they cannot with a good conscience celebrate the coming

INDEPENDENCE DAY,

without first providing themselves with a suitable rig. Every body should look as respectable as possible on that day, therefore

PROVIDE YOURSELF IN TIME

with a new pair of BOOTS or SHOES, and the place where you can get them very cheap is at the People's Cheap Boot and Shoe Store, where the proprietor is every day dispensing Bargains in BOOTS, SHOES AND GAITERS!

All we have to say is, Come in and look at us and our large stock of Goods.

REMEMBER

that the place for BARGAINS is at KIMBALL'S, Virginia street, two doors below the Superintendent's Office.

DESILVER'S NEW SUPER IMPERIAL SHEET MAP OF THE SEAT OF WAR.

Embracing a full Map of Europe and complete Maps of Sardinia and Lombardy, Austria and Italy. The whole embodied in one Super Imperial Sheet, size 36x44 inches, furnishing such reliable geographical information as cannot be procured from any other sources.

This sheet also contains Statistics, carefully compiled from the latest reliable authorities, giving the strength of the Armies and Natives of the Powers of Europe, with brief accounts of the Leaders and Generals of the opposing Armies in the present struggle.

Also correct and handsome Portraits of Louis Napoleon III. Emperor of France; Alexander II. Emperor of all the Russians; Francis Joseph I, Emperor of Austria; and Victor Emmanuel, King of Sardinia.

The great success attending the publication of Desilver's small steel plate Map of the Seat of War, has induced the Publisher to issue this extended Map, prepared from Steel Plates rendering it vastly superior to the common Lithographic Maps now issued. This splendid Map will be furnished at the following low prices:

Handsomely Colored, in Cases, ... $1.00
Handsomely Colored, in Sheets, ... 50
Handsomely Colored, Mounted on Rollers, ... 2.00

Or either of the Maps of Europe, Austria, Sardinia, and Lombardy, or Italy, furnished separately or in sheets, colored, at 25 cents.

EXCHANGE HOTEL.—THE SUBSCRIBER would respectfully inform the public that he has recently refitted the above Hotel, and is now prepared to accommodate his friends and patrons in a comfortable manner, and he will spare no pains in making it an agreeable home for all sojourners. His Table will always be luxuriously supplied from the markets of the country and cities, and his Bar filled with liquors of choice brands. His charges are as reasonable as those of any other Hotel in the place, and he feels satisfied they can not be complained of by those who favor him with their custom. Expecting to receive a share of public patronage, and fully intending to deserve it, he throws open his house to the public and invites a trial.

I have just received a stock of No. 1 French Brandy, for medicinal purposes, together with a lot of the best old Rye Whiskey to be found in the country.

Altoona, May 27, 1859.-1y] JOHN BOWMAN.

HOUSEKEEPER'S ASSISTANT!—Marshall's Patent Last-Holder.

This machine is designed to hold a Boot or Shoe of every size, and also in every desired position, for pegging, sewing, pairing off, buffing, setting up edges, &c., thus rendering it unnecessary for the operator to hold his work either in his hands, upon his knees, or against his breast. He can stand on it at pleasure. It has also a Lap-Iron attached. The whole apparatus is strong, durable, light compact and portable.

By the use of this machine, the business in question is greatly facilitated and also rendered one of the most healthful and pleasant occupations among the mechanical arts.

The above invention needs only to be seen to be appreciated.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT. For Inflammatory Diseases only.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT, instead of being a remedy for all ills, has but one aim, and accomplishes but one thing, to wit: Subdues inflammatory disease, whatever be its form or locality. This it does by equalizing the circulation, thereby removing the sole cause of inflamation.

RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Headache, Fits, Colds, Fevers, Inflamed Throat, Lungs, and Liver, Female Diseases Erysipelas, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Venereal Diseases, Gout, Scrofula, Canker and all other forms of Inflamation are easily subdued by the New Medical Salt.

THE NEW MEDICAL SALT, is no CURE-ALL, but does just what it claims to do—no more, no less—equalises the circulation by removing from the system all arterial and venous obstructions.

MULTITUDES HAVE TRIED the virtues of the New Medical Salt, though but lately discovered and introduced. Witness the testimonials and certificates of cure.

ALL WHO HAVE USED IT acknowledge a benefit from it.—An acquaintance of ours was cured of a severe case of Neuralgia in less than a week.

YOUR INVALUABLE MEDICINE is nobly fulfilling, in my case, all the promises which you made for it. A few doses also relieved my mother of a rush of blood to the head.

J. P. GILLINGHAM, Phila.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM was my complaint. The first package did the work effectually, as not a vestige of Rheumatism is left. G. H. DUNCAN, New York.

I KNOW IT IS GOOD for Rheumatism, removing it in a few hours. I am now trying it for Scrofula and have already received benefit. S. LESSIG, Reading.

I TRIED IT FOR ANEURISM of the Abdominal Aorta. In ten days the pain was gone.

T. W. FITZIMMONS, M. D., Phila.

WE SPEAK BY THE BOOK. We have tried it. It has complete control over inflamation.

BRONCHITIS, CANKER, Rheumatism, and Neuralgia have been cured by it.

MANY MORE WOULD TESTIFY, if necessary. Descriptive Circulars, with testimonials may be obtained from any Druggists who has this valuable medicine for sale.

Dr. COGGSWELL'S Antiphlogistic Salt. Price, One Dollar. Chronic Package, $2.50.

D. C. TAYLOR, & CO.,
Gen. Agents, 202 Dock St. Phila.

THE NEW MEDICAL SALT IS FOR SALE in Altoona, by A. Roush; Geo. A. Jacobs, Hollidaysburg, and by all enterprising druggists wherever the "Tribune" is read. As it is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of an eminent physician, no one should fail to try the Medical Salt. For testimonials and directions, see circular.

SUFFERING HUMANITY, READ THIS.—The undersigned takes this method of informing the public generally that there is no medicine now offered to the public that is equal to DU VALL'S GALVANIC OIL in relieving suffering humanity.

I was an observer of its effects on a friend of mine, who suffered almost everything from a neuralgic affection which resisted the best medical treatment in Centre county. We applied freely the Galvanic Oil to the painful part, and gave some inwardly, and in 20 minutes the pain was asleep, and when awakened was free from pain and continued so. This is a positive fact which I am willing to make good at any time. A case of Felon was cured in nearly the same length of time. J. H. HAHN.
